Guest Speaker

Jim Webb, Chief Information Security Officer & Deputy Chief Information Officer, App State

Jim Webb data exists in many forms. How is data governed? Webb shares the data governance website. Google Drive is not certified for confidential data due to the risk of accidentally sharing the data or not updating the membership of Google Drives or Google Groups by removing members. Webb urges the use of the data classification tree. Secure and confidential information are shared through FileShare. Banner ID numbers are not considered confidential data. Please reach out in regards to data storage needs in order for the data to be stored properly and to ensure that copies of the data are stored in more than one location. A solution that IT is looking at is storing the data at a data center in one location within the United States and also storing it at another data center across the country. The cloud storage solution being looked at for campus is called Wasabi. This entails a lot of protection, even from a natural disaster in order to not lose research information. Also, reach out to insert cloud storage for enterprise solution cost estimates into grant proposals. Webb encourages people who want to learn, or have any concerns or questions to attend the weekly security team meetings on Fridays at 11:00 am <https://security.appstate.edu/training-awareness/connect>.
